

No one would want to use a person to translate a language unless the person knew the language. Certification by the RID or NAD is a way of insuring that the interpreter will have the needed skills to communicate well.